

Refren Psalmu:

Nakazy Pana są radością serca

Rozważania Niedzielne

Zgorszenie

Chcąc nie chcąc, zawsze stajemy po czyjejs stronie – działaniem lub bezczynnością, mówieniem lub milczeniem, uśmiechem lub przez kamienną twarz. W konkretnych życiowych sytuacjach bezstronność nie istnieje. Wybierając, opowiadamy się za dobrem lub złem, postępujemy szlachetnie lub niegodziwie. Kiedyś nam wszystkim przyjdzie zdać sprawę ze swego życia. Jezus przestrzega przed dramatem zgorszenia: gdy drugi człowiek staje się przeze mnie gorszy, upada, zaczyna służyć złej sprawie. Mieć kogoś na sumieniu to niezwykle gorzkie doświadczenie. Dlatego Ewangelia mówi o zdecydowanym przeciwstawieniu się złu: odetnij się od tego, co cię prowadzi do zła i grzechu.

Reflection

Today we continue to read from the Gospel of Mark. Recall that last week we heard Jesus chastise his disciples for their argument about who among them was the greatest. Jesus taught them that the greatest among them will be those who serve the least ones. In today's Gospel, the disciple John questions Jesus about an unknown exorcist who was driving out demons in Jesus' name. John's question might have been motivated by jealousy. Previously in Mark's Gospel, Jesus healed a boy whom the disciples had been unable to heal. John's question is further evidence that the disciples have not yet grasped Jesus' words to them. They continue to compare themselves to others who seem to have greater healing powers, and they do not want to share the power of Jesus' name with others.

Today the demon possession described in the Gospels might be seen as a form of mental illness, but the need for healing these syndromes was as real then as it is now. Exorcism was a common practice in first-century Palestine. Some people had the power to heal the symptoms of possession. One of the strategies used was to invoke the name of a person or figure who was believed to have the power to heal.

The disciples observed that the unknown exorcist invoked Jesus' name and was successful in his healing efforts. This unknown healer recognized the power of Jesus' name, yet he was not a follower of Jesus. In his reply to his disciples, Jesus acknowledges that deeds of faith can precede the words of faith. He also teaches that the disciples should not be reluctant to share Jesus' healing powers with others.

Later in this Gospel, Jesus teaches us not to create obstacles for those who are just beginning to have faith but to encourage even the smallest signs of faith. The Greek word used here for sin also connotes "stumbling" or "causing scandal." In vivid terms Jesus teaches his disciples the consequences to those who would put obstacles before people who are on the road to faith.

The Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops (CCC) is involved in national and international areas of pastoral activity, including social justice, ecumenical and interfaith relations, collaboration with Aboriginal Peoples, life and family issues, liturgy, catechesis, doctrine and relations with Catholic associations and movements. Each year the CCCB is asked to speak out, show leadership or provide guidelines for the faithful on a wide variety of topics. In order for our bishops to be able to make proper judgments on modern topics, they must have the benefit of research, expert advice and capable administration which is also funded by this collection. There will be a second collection today for the Needs of the Church in Canada. Your gifts are used by the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops to represent Canadian Catholics in national and international pastoral activity. Thank you for your support of this important work.
